LETTER FROM OUR CHAIR
As I write this letter in summer 2022—as Israel plans for its fifth election in four years—January 2021 seems a long time ago. The tumultuous events of the past year and a half are a reminder that world affairs and U.S. engagement with the Israeli-Palestinian conflict are a sometimes wild, and always bumpy, ride.

Throughout 2021, Israel Policy Forum continued its critical work to provide credible and constructive policy analysis and educational resources for policymakers and community leaders to enhance awareness of the dynamics impacting the Israeli-Palestinian conflict and the role of U.S. policy and diplomacy in advancing a viable resolution.

We served as an essential address for policymakers in Washington seeking analysis and resources to understand how the United States can play a proactive and responsible leadership role. We provided more expert briefings for policymakers than ever before, as decision makers and analysts turned to us for our credible and insightful analysis.

Israel Policy Forum also strengthened its position as a go-to resource for the Jewish community for nuanced educational content. In 2021, we offered countless educational sessions in partnership with organizations across the country, engaged audiences spanning the political, denominational, and generational spectrums, and utilized new, innovative educational online tools.
And I am especially proud of IPF Atid, which continues to engage a diverse array of young professionals throughout North America, training the next generation of communal and policy leaders to be more informed, confident, and effective in their leadership in support of our mission.

On the following pages, you can read more about Israel Policy Forum’s work and influence in 2021, particularly in response to the escalating violence in Gaza in May. Today, Israel Policy Forum’s reach and impact are growing. And the work ahead—both in Washington and in the American Jewish community—is as challenging and as essential as ever.

None of this would have been possible without your support. We are elevating the discourse on critical issues in our community and laying the foundation to restore the United States as a credible, constructive actor in helping Israelis and Palestinians achieve a two-state vision and a more secure and peaceful future. Thank you for your support and engagement in the critical work that lies ahead.

With great appreciation,

Susie Gelman
Board Chair

“ We are elevating the discourse on critical issues in our community and laying the foundation to restore the United States as a credible, constructive actor in helping Israelis and Palestinians achieve a two-state vision and a more secure and peaceful future. ”
STATEMENT OF PRINCIPLES
We are guided by our vision of a Jewish, democratic, secure Israel, by our values of Zionism, forthrightness, intellectual integrity, partnership, and perseverance, and by the following principles:

1. Preserving & Advancing Two States
2. Advancing U.S. Interests and the National Aspirations of Israelis and Palestinians
3. The Importance of Israel’s Security
4. Israel’s Regional Integration
5. U.S.-Israel Relations & U.S. Leadership
6. The Responsibility of Israeli and Palestinian Leadership
7. American Jewish Engagement & Debate
8. The Role of Education, Research, and Analysis

[LEARN MORE]
Israel Policy Forum is our go-to resource for up-to-the-minute Israel analysis that is easy to process and helpful to know.

ABOUT US
OUR VISION IS A SECURE, JEWISH, DEMOCRATIC ISRAEL.

Israel Policy Forum was founded in 1993 to build support in the American Jewish community and in Washington for the diplomatic vision of the late Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin.

Israel Policy Forum envisions a secure, Jewish, democratic Israel. Our mission is to strengthen support among American policymakers and Jewish leaders for U.S. efforts to advance a viable two-state outcome to the Israeli-Palestinian conflict consistent with Israel's security.

We advance this goal by developing in-depth, credible policy analysis and by educating policymakers and the American Jewish community through innovative and engaging educational programs to enable them to promote and act on pragmatic solutions.

225 Bipartisan Bicameral Congressional Staffers Briefed

We develop policy research and analysis on critical issues impacting the future of the Israeli-Palestinian conflict.
In 2021, Israel Policy Forum solidified its role as a critical voice in informing and educating members of Congress, congressional staffers, and the executive branch on developments in Israel and the ever-evolving U.S. policy towards the region.

We reached an unprecedented number of offices on Capitol Hill in 2021: in 2019 and 2020 combined, Israel Policy Forum reached nearly 200 Congressional staffers, while in 2021, nearly 225 bipartisan bicameral Congressional staffers were briefed on Israel Policy Forum’s new policy framework, A Realistic Reset. A Realistic Reset was also introduced in our Tuesday briefings, on Israel Policy Pod, in the weekly Koplow Column, and in a special series for IPF Atid. Dozens more received briefings on Israel Policy Forum’s new policy report on Israeli-Arab state normalization (The New Normal), the March 2021 elections, the May 2021 conflict with Gaza, and Israel’s transition to a new government in June 2021—the first in over a decade without Benjamin Netanyahu at its head. (You can read more about our response to the May conflict here.)

Israel Policy Forum has also engaged deeply with the American administration, hosting private and public events and meetings with key officials in the State Department, National Security Council, Department of Defense, and the United States Agency for International Development (USAID).
A Realistic Reset Policy Summit

As part of the June 2021 Policy Summit, Israel Policy Forum hosted a number of members of Congress, including on panels and in meetings to discuss A Realistic Reset. Israel Policy Forum met with 18 congressional offices and engaged in productive conversations on critical policy issues. The Summit attracted 1,200 unique participants. The closing plenary included 682 viewers on Zoom, with additional attendees on Facebook Live and the Times of Israel website. (A summary of the program and participant feedback can be found here.) A special section of our website devoted to A Realistic Reset featured a deeper dive into policy priorities.

Israel Policy Forum’s materials continue to be must-read material in Washington, with the Koplow Column and Israel Policy Exchange pieces reaching a wide audience and driving the policy conversation.
In 2021, we continued our weekly public virtual briefings launched in Spring 2020. Over the course of the year, we presented 31 public webinar briefings, including a live election-night broadcast in March.

In addition to Israel Policy Forum experts, 25 analysts, journalists, and policymakers covered a broad range of topics related to the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, U.S. and Israeli elections, and Israel’s security in the region. In total, the webinars attracted 11,032 attendees with a weekly average of 356.

Attendance peaked in June when more than 682 people joined us for Winds of Change, the closing plenary of our two-day Policy Summit. A close second was Israel and Gaza in Crisis in May when 676 people gathered for a conversation with Chief Policy Officer Michael Koplow and Diane and Guilford Glazer Foundation Director of Policy Research Shira Efron. Recordings can be found on our website.
Israel Policy Forum Chief Policy Officer Michael Koplow pens a weekly column providing nuanced commentary on the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, Israeli politics, and the American Jewish community.

More than 9,000 readers subscribe to the column, which is frequently syndicated in the Jewish Journal and quoted in the press.

9,000+ Subscribers
Our weekly podcast continued to be popular with listeners, with an average of 2,275 downloads per week for the 64 episodes in 2021, up from 1,500 in 2020. Podcasts have been downloaded more than 144,995 times by listeners in North America, Israel, and Europe.

Tel Aviv-based journalist and Israel Policy Forum Policy Advisor Neri Zilber began hosting the podcast in Fall 2021, carrying the torch from Associate Director of Policy and Communications Evan Gottesman.

You can listen to Israel Policy Pod here.
Master Class

With online learning becoming increasingly popular amid the pandemic, we have introduced a 10-part Master Class series on the history of the conflict examining both the Israeli and Palestinian viewpoints of major historic events. Hosted by Dr. Col. (res.) Shaul Arieli—considered to be an ‘encyclopedia’ of the Israeli-Palestinian political process and one of Israel’s leading experts on the demarcation of the future Israeli-Palestinian border and the route of the Separation Barrier—the series includes 10 high-quality, short videos (generally 10 minutes each) addressing a range of issues, from the historic foundations of the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, to the evolution of peacemaking efforts, to the dangers of West Bank annexation.

The series has been viewed more than 2,800 times and was featured in Politico’s foreign policy newsletter.

COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT
A National Resource
Our local and national programming remained primarily virtual in 2021 and included 58 programs and partnerships with 75 organizations across the country in 35 different cities.

We also established an ongoing series of briefings for Jewish communal professionals, hosting some 25 organizations at each of the four sessions.

Members of IPF Atid, our young professionals community, served as important ambassadors of Israel Policy Forum, introducing our content to 15 additional organizations.

360° Virtual Tour

We launched our new 360° Virtual Tour platform in 2021, hosting 33 virtual tours and another 20 + shorter tour previews for different organizations and individuals. The virtual tour platform transports viewers to strategic locations throughout Israel and the West Bank, offering a bird’s-eye view of the key territorial issues at the heart of the Israeli-Palestinian conflict. With high-definition drone footage, interactive maps, and video clips, this new platform allows us to illustrate and discuss key strategic issues and their potential impact on future Israeli-Palestinian peacemaking.

360° presentations developed thus far include:

Jerusalem, Hot Button Issues, History of Settlements in the West Bank, and a special Insider’s Tour of Sheikh Jarrah and Silwan which provides an on-the-ground view of the neighborhood and a discussion of how recent developments will shape Israeli-Palestinian relations in Jerusalem going forward. A self-guided version will be released for beta testing in 2022.
360° Virtual Tour

Israel Policy Forum presents 360°
As the Israel-Gaza conflict escalated in early May 2021, policymakers in Washington and Jewish communal leaders and members across political, denominational, geographic, and generational spectrums turned to us for credible, nuanced analysis of the conflict, historical context, and insight into possible outcomes. We responded with timely content tailored for each audience, addressing various audiences including members of Congress, college students, synagogue members, educators, Jewish communal leaders, and the general public.

In addition to more than two dozen private Congressional briefings, Israel Policy Forum staff provided more than 20 private briefings for national organizations and nearly 20 local communities. In total, 31 organizations invited Israel Policy Forum to educate their stakeholders.
IPF Atid joined the Instagram conversation about the crisis by sharing thoughtful, nuanced policy content designed to counter the name-calling and misinformation spreading across social media.

Our posts during the month of May were among our top 10 posts in the last two years and reached more than 22,000 people. Atidniks also gathered for community check-ins on Zoom to share their frustrations, questions, concerns, and ideas with each other in the wake of the latest conflict.

Dozens of IPF Atid members spoke together for over 3 hours, many commenting on the importance of IPF Atid creating a space and a community for young Jews seeking nuance and complexity amidst the polarizing discourse of the prior weeks.
Our explainer, Jerusalem to Gaza: The Unfolding Israeli-Palestinian Crisis was cited by USA Today and was promoted as the top resource by the Jewish Education Project, distributed to Jewish educators nationwide.

Chief Policy Officer Michael Koplow was quoted by Vox media, and his May 13, 2021 column was quoted by The Washington Post. The column also went viral on IPF Atid’s Instagram account, garnering more than 3,334 impressions after being shared 445 times. Israel Fellow Nimrod Novik was quoted extensively in USA Today and in The Forward.

Associate Director of Policy and Communications Evan Gottesman published an op-ed in The Forward on the dangers of utilizing this episode to relitigate the conflict of 1948 and hosted a podcast, Refugees and Rockets, on the Jerusalem controversy that sparked tensions. Our May 11 webinar, Gaza, Jerusalem, Israeli Politics, and the May 19 webinar, Israel and Gaza in Crisis, were among the most popular of the year, attended by 591 and 676 respectively.

AMPLIFYING OUR MESSAGE
Our efforts to provide fresh and engaging content on social media platforms and our website helped to drive traffic and strengthen israelpolicyforum.org as a source of credible and timely analysis. Our search traffic increased by 17% and the average time spent by our users on our website increased 6%.

Our Twitter presence also continues to be strong with 1.4 million impressions and 69,034 profile visits over the course of 2021.

IPF Atid’s online community has held relatively steady (down 4%) in 2021 with 1,101 Facebook followers compared to 1,150 in 2020, and 2,247 email subscribers compared to 2,340 in 2020. Engagement on Instagram has grown substantially, as IPF Atid promotes more curated and shareable content with young professionals active on the platform. In the month of February 2021 alone, IPF Atid reached 1,258 Instagram users, representing an uptick of 47% compared to the start of 2021. In June, we reached a weekly average of 1,081 users compared to 650 in 2020, driven in part by a change in our Instagram strategy beginning in May.
Our Chief Policy Officer Michael Koplow continued his role as an in-demand analyst and essential resource among journalists, policymakers, and community leaders. His Koplow Column reached more than 9,000 subscribers each week. Israel Policy Forum and its staff and leadership are frequently cited in mainstream American Jewish and Israeli English-language publications.

A few examples of news mentions in 2021 are shown on the right.

May 18, 2021: Michael Koplow’s column quoted and linked to in USA Today

May 21, 2021: TIME Magazine referred to a White House email that referenced an Israel Policy Forum statement praising the administration’s efforts leading to the Gaza ceasefire

Oct 13, 2021: In his Washington Post column, Ishaan Tharoor references and links to The New Normal, our report on Arab-Israeli Normalization and the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, after having participated in the webinar on this study the previous day
IPF ATID
Shaping the Conversation in the Decades to Come
Engagement driven by IPF Atid, our young professionals initiative, continued to grow rapidly in 2021. IPF Atid hosted 64 programs (including 11 in-person events in eight cities) with total attendance of 2,373 participants, strengthened the engagement of its online community, and successfully launched a series of weekly conversations on Clubhouse, attracting 1,251 attendees.

With chapters in Boston, Chicago, Los Angeles, New York, San Francisco, and Washington, D.C., IPF Atid is also growing its presence in Philadelphia and Dallas and reaching new communities through its leadership network including Allentown, PA; Baltimore, MD; Burlington, VT; Charlotte, NC; Detroit, MI; Durham, NC; Indianapolis, IN; Jacksonville, FL; Kingston, ON; Miami, FL; Minneapolis, MN; Ottawa, ON; Philadelphia, PA; Phoenix, AZ; Portland, OR; Short Hills, NJ; Toronto, Ontario, CA; and Waterville, ME.

The third year of the Charles Bronfman Conveners Summit—an immersive training and cohort experience for North American young professionals (ages 21-39) to engage with and advocate for Israel Policy Forum’s vision of advancing a viable two-state solution—continued to meet online for 20 programs with Israel Policy Forum’s professional and lay leadership, briefings with experts on the region and the two-state solution, and private meetings with diplomats. The group successfully piloted training sessions on conversation facilitation, digital organizing, and op-ed writing, which have now rolled out to a broader IPF Atid leadership group.
The IPF Atid network initiated and led an eight-part series called Zionism Explored to shed light on the diversity of voices in the Zionist community. Each session consisted of a panel focused on a particular community including progressives, conservatives, religious Zionists, Palestinians, and Mizrahi Jews. Participants came away with greater respect and understanding of the importance of challenging their own views and the views of others.

During the escalation in May, IPF Atid held several open virtual spaces for our community members to come together and grapple with the conflict abroad. We heard from many of them that the rhetoric on both sides of the spectrum was polarizing, dehumanizing, and lacked an understanding of the nuances. As a result of the desperate need for a more balanced perspective on social media, our team developed creative ways to showcase thoughtful ideas despite the inherent challenge of synthesizing complex ideas into a tweet or Instagram post.

ANNUAL EVENTS

We hosted two benefit events in 2021, one virtual and one in person.
Our in-person benefit in New York honored Board Member Alisa F. Levin on December 8. The event included remarks from President Isaac Herzog and a tribute by Marcia Riklis. Alisa also moderated a panel discussion titled The Evolving Conversation on the Israeli-Palestinian Conflict: U.S. Policy and the Jewish Community featuring Laura E. Adkins, Opinion Editor, The Forward; Yona Shem Tov, Chief Executive Officer, Encounter; and Michael Koplow, Chief Policy Officer, Israel Policy Forum.

The virtual event honored Board Member David Sherman of Chicago and featured an off-the-record conversation with Chief Policy Officer Michael Koplow and Diane and Guilford Glazer Foundation Director of Policy Research Shira Efron.
